

2024 Nominee for Nominations Committee Member

Rune Hartmann, Ph.D.

Professor

Department of Molecular Biology and Genetics, RNA Biology and Innovation
Aarhus University, Aarhus, Denmark

The nomination committee's responsibility is to assemble the best slate of candidates for Council and Nominations Committee vacancies. This includes verifying prior participation in ICIS activities and assessing how well each candidate aligns with the organization's mission and objectives. Please describe reasons why you feel you are well qualified to serve as a member of the Nominations Committee, including how your background and network has given you a diverse perspective.

I have been a member of ICIS since I was a graduate student in the late 90ties, at Aarhus University. I did my postdoctoral training at the Cleveland Clinic foundation, with Ganes Sen, from 2000 to 2004, after which I returned to Aarhus. Thus, I have been actively engaged in ICIS for my entire career I also serves on the research comity at my department since 2018, who oversees all recruitment and promotion at the department, as well as on the Danish research councils.

Please list your current and/or past participation in ICIS committees. Include committee membership, positions of leadership, speaking invitations, etc.

I have been a member of:

- ICIS nomenclature committee
- Scientific Advisory Board for Cytokines 2015 in Bamberg
- The nomination committee (for the past 3 years)
- I was the organiser of the 2010 Interferon Lambda focus workshop at the ICIS meeting.

List any other relevant qualifications for office, including any non-ICIS volunteer or other leadership activities. (Not a CV.)

- Organizer of the 34th conference of the European Macrophage and Dendritic cell Society (EMDS) in Aarhus
- Chairman Danish society for immunology (2016-2022)
- Scientific Programme Committee, ICE 2024.
